Keeping you connected, wherever you are

We've been connecting with families via high-quality video conferencing technology for many years. In fact, we wrote the book on it. Wherever you are in Australia, work with our specialists to access early intervention, School Support, and other therapy in the comfort of your own home.

Like in-person sessions, Connected Services provides you and your child with individualised support, from experienced NextSense therapists and teachers. Here's what it may involve:

-  individual and group sessions
-  tools for listening and spoken language development
-  Auslan support
-  braille tuition and vision loss support
-  transition to preschool, school and School Support
-  a lending library with child and parent resources
-  parent networking and information.

In-person support available to you and your family

Sometimes, you may want to receive in-person support. We can arrange visits to your closest NextSense site for:

- Individual or group sessions
- Early intervention groups
- Assessments and planning services
- Preschool or school visits
- Parent networking opportunities
- NextSense camps.
